

Hi Jason:

I hope you have time before Thanksgiving to just pop in and see the finished result before all the furniture goes in.

Lisa was just over and she could barely believe it. She did such a good job with the design and color choices.

I have only shown two people the house so far and both were blown away by the results, and of course were interested in who had done the work.

It is now that the real excitement has hit, as well as the appreciation of what has been achieved. I love it so much that I can barely stay out of it!! Even the kids cannot drag themselves away.

After the holidays you and Jamie will have to squeeze in a little time to come over and just have a beer, sit back and congratulate yourselves on what has been achieved. It is just wonderful!! The goals were for sure achieved, or even exceeded!!

If we do not see you, have a Happy Thanksgiving.

Best regards,

Julie
